of Labor, is in town in the interests of the strike on the New York Central Railroad, It may respectfully be submitted to Mr. WEBB's consideration that when something which affects the public as directly as the results of the strike on the Central is due to a difference of opinion on one point, and each view is so doggedly maintained by each party to the dispute that argument, influence and interest are powerless to affect it, there is something to arbitrate. There could not be a case more fit for arbitration, for an able examination of the grounds for the conflicting opinions and a clear flecided judgment on the wisdom of one over the other.

That Mr. WEBB consents to receive Mr. POWDERLY is a change for the better in that gentleman's attitude, and it is to be hoped that in this more rations' frame of mind he may perceive the justice and nobility of referring the point in dispute to the State Board of Arbitration.

A DECIDED IMPROVEMENT.

A concert for the sick babies was held at the Indian Harbor Hotel, Greenwich, Coun. , which netted a handsome sum for the little unfortunates, whose only friend is the generous stranger. The greatest interest was taken in the event and the children, full of act.vity. lent quite a helping hand to the undertaking. The charming women at this resort are not through with their good work. They improve hours which women at Eummer resorts usually devote to gossip to making clothing for the sick babies.

This is good example. Instead of wagging their tongues they ply their needles; in place of rending to hits the mantle which charity holds before human weaknesses they prepare clothes for the bodies of the little babies held in the bony arms of Poverty.

Ladies, your example is more commendable than even your gracious alms. To such true women, honor and greeting.

Biess dogs, anyway; with their playful little digglogs and scratchings and traky how-wows. Such company for a man. Jane hates dogs.

Flies? Why, I often leave the dining-room door eigen on purpose to let the little creatures come in. It is a fallacy that flies love heated better than pleasantly cool rooms. No such thing.

When I ocen the door you should see them swarm in; cuddling among the folds of the portiere cartains, playing tag on the new ceiling dancing upon the sugar bowl—bappy little things. One lit on my nose at the dinner table, and rather than disturb him I kept perfectly still, not daring to chew the bee-greek I held in my mouth. I cara fairly rolled rather than disturb him I kept perfectly still, not daring to clew the bee steek I held in my mouth. Tears fairly rolled down my cheeks.

By and by he, supposing Jane and I were one, no doubt, in on the other nose of us, and when I called my wife a goose for slapping at him she said something real pert and left the table. Jane can't abide files.

Next thing she was brushing up little heaps of cigar ashes and burnt matches I had carefully scattered over the curpet the evening before. Good for moths, you know. Jane says there are no moths in the house, and the ashes make the carpet griny. Poor Jane!

I took the cat upstairs yesterday and had her on the spare bed. Dear little kit. cat. She did so enjoy Jane's satin quilt. Cats like neat, soft places where they can lie and sleep. It did my soul good to hear her purr and see her claw at the quilt, just as though she was kneading thread. Jane drove her off. She doesn't even like cats.
